Valuable Forests and City and Town Property Destroyed

LIVES ALSO LOST IN THE FLAMES

Several Firemen Crushed to Death Under Falling Walls in Washington—Heavy Losses Reported in Half a Dozen States.

Washington, May 19.—Fire swept away a whole block of commercial buildings opposite the Smithsonian Institution after 8 o'clock last evening. The lives of at least six firemen were crushed out by falling walls. The loss will exceed $200,000. The buildings covering the block adjoining the Centre Market constituted practically the entire commission and wholesale produce business of Washington, and while not of great value, their contents burned so fiercely that a great portion of the residents from all parts of the city were attracted to the scene of the conflagration. From 7 to 8 o'clock the city was visited by one of the most terrific thunder storms in years and it is thought lightning traveling on telegraph wires entered a Postal Telegraph sub-station and started the flames, which spread rapidly through the highly inflammable materials of the building on Louisiana avenue, Ninth, Tenth and D streets. In a few minutes, under general alarm orders, the entire fire department commenced its efforts to check the fire's spread, but exploding barrels of kerosene and gasoline drove them off and led them to direct their energies to preventing the flames from crossing streets to neighboring squares. While the firemen of No. 5 engine were working a hose through one of the old buildings the roof fell without warning, burying them in the ruins. The wrecked building at once began burning furiously and any attempt at rescue was beyond question. Not until an hour later had the flames sufficiently subsided at this point for the firemen to begin clearing away the debris. Then three men, Joe Mulhail, Donaldson and Kennedy, still alive but scorched and crushed beyond all hope of recovery, were taken out and removed to the Providence hospital. This morning the firemen came upon another body. Four others are still known to be in the ruins and are being searched for.

FIRES IN NEW JERSEY.

Destructive Conflagration at Waretown—Damage Near Egg Harbor City.

Toms River, N. J., May 19.—A great fire visited the town of Waretown, Ocean county, yesterday afternoon. The news that the town was on fire came from the telegraph operator in the railroad station, who summoned assistance. A special train started from Manchester, bringing volunteer firemen from that place. A number of volunteer firemen from this place, together with the local fire apparatus, also went to assist the stricken town. Farmers and business men also left their work to render assistance. At one time it looked as if the whole town would be destroyed. Many families are rendered homeless. The volunteers from the surrounding towns have made arrangements to care for the sufferers.

Great Damage in Galloway Township. Egg Harbor City, N. J., May 19.—Another damaging fire spread through Galloway township yesterday afternoon. A high wind greatly aided the spread of the fire. The fruit orchard, berry patches and vegetables on the farm of William Fridhoffer were burned, and the outbuildings on John Mentz's farm were destroyed. The fire spread fully six miles, destroying the house and outbuildings of William Hohnelsen, the barn of Henry Middlesdorfer and an unoccupied building of Christian Lawer. The damage to the huckleberry crop and timber aggregates a large figure, and the fire is not yet under full control.

Forest Fire Near Calais, Me. Calais, Me., May 19.—Heavy showers have checked the fires which have been raging on all sides the past week. Hundreds of men have been fighting them the past four days to keep them from the settlements along the railroads and river. At one time there was almost a complete circle around the city, in some places the flames coming within four miles of the city hall. Unless a heavy rain comes very soon nothing but the river will check the spread of the flames.

North Reading's Big Fire. North Reading, Mass., May 19.—Yesterday's fire was the worst that ever visited this town. Seven houses, two barns, a large mill and over twenty-five out-buildings were destroyed as the result of a brush fire. The houses destroyed were those of Henry E. Gould, Milo Gould, Irving Batchelder, Wm. Holt and Brown's large saw and grist mill, in the basement of which were fifty pigs.

Fires Raging on Seven Mountains. Leavitt, Pa., May 19.—Forest fires on Seven Mountains, this county, have destroyed thousands of dollars worth of lumber, bark and wood, and the log camp of Kuhn, Thomas & Co., whose railroad is burned and their locomotives and upper camp left in the heart of the fire with no means of communication with the outside world. Fears for their safety are entertained.

Damage by Forest Fires in Connecticut. Winsted, Conn., May 19.—Forest fires have done $60,000 damage and are still raging in Colbrook, Chapinville, Lakeville, New Hartford and Torrington. One hundred men fought the flames in Chapinville yesterday and "Ravine Hurst," a summer hotel, barely escaped destruction.

NAHANT'S BIG BLAZE.

The Longfellow Cottage Among the Property Destroyed Yesterday Afternoon.

Lynn, Mass., May 19.—The resident portion of the town of Nahant was the scene of a disastrous fire late yesterday afternoon which destroyed five valuable summer residences, causing a property loss approximating $100,000. The wind was very high, the water supply inadequate and only vigilant efforts on the part of the firemen and citizens generally prevented the conflagration from being more disastrous than it was. The houses burned were all vacant but most of them had been put in readiness for the coming of summer guests. They were the Longfellow cottage where the poet spent his summer for many years and where the "Bells of Lynn" was composed and written. It was owned by Miss Alice Longfellow, daughter of the poet; two buildings on the Green estate, the Duncan and Cunningham cottages and the Russell cottage. In addition to these several other cottages were more or less singed and many rods of costly fence were burned. The fire started in the yard of the Longfellow cottage and is supposed to have been occasioned by a spark from the pipe of one of the carpenters or painters employed there.

Destruction in New Hampshire.

Concord, N. H., May 19.—The fire that started yesterday noon in the woods surrounding Lake Walden was one of the fiercest ever known here, and it has burned over 1,000 acres of wood land and destroyed hundreds of cords of wood. The stately pines that sheltered the site of Thoreau's hermitage on the shore of Lake Walden were destroyed, and the beautiful parkway owned by Mrs. W. K. Forbes was burned over. The extreme drought of the month and the high wind made it impossible to do much more than protect buildings that were located near the wood, many of which were in danger, while some out buildings were consumed. Five separate alarms were rung at Concord and help came from Concord Junction, Lincoln and Roadmaster McNamee of the Fitchburg railroad sent a special train with sixty men from Waltham. The fire crossed Walden street, sandy pond and the old Cambridge turnpike and burned through Lincoln to the Lexington line. Some of the principal losses in Concord are the estates of the late Ralph Waldo Emerson, Hon. George Derby and R. G. Wood.

4,000 Cords of Wood Burned.

Plattsburg, N. Y., May 19.—Four thousand cords of wood belonging to the Chazy Marble Lime company were burned yesterday.

AGAIN IDENTIFIED.

The Colonnade Hotel Suicide Now Said to Be Mrs. E. E. Hill.

New York, May 19.—"Mrs. Everett," the Colonnade hotel suicide, has again been identified, this time by reputable people known in this city who are positive that they are right, and if the identification by Felicien Fauconniere, the Frenchman, is not proven true at once the body will be given up by the morgue keeper to be buried as Mrs. E. E. Hill, wife of E. E. Hill, a musician of Brompton Roads, London. His professional name is Edgar Zerega, and he is said to be well known as a musician and theatrical manager. The identification was made at the morgue late last evening by lawyers J. Kantrowitz and M. Esberg. The former has known Mrs. Hill from childhood and Lawyer Esberg has seen her half a dozen times. These lawyers were assisted in the identification by ex-congressman Ralph Hill of Indianapolis, who is the father of Mrs. Hill's husband. Mrs. Hill herself was formerly Miss May D. Keith, daughter of Col. John A. Keith, a prominent citizen and real estate dealer of Columbus, Ind. Lawyer Hill came from Indianapolis yesterday after having received a cablegram from his son asking him to see if the body of the suicide might not be that of Mrs. Hill. Lawyer Kantrowitz said that Mrs. Hill had been to his office half a dozen times to see him. They were both born in Columbus, Ind., and had known each other since childhood. Mrs. Hill came to America five weeks ago. She seems to have held no communication with her relatives in the west since her arrival here and even Lawyer Hill does not know what made his son suspect that she was the Colonnade suicide. Felicien Fauconniere, the Frenchman who identified the body, still claims that it is that of Louise Lansberg. His story is regarded as most remarkable.

Running on Reduced Time.

Biddleford, Me., May 19.—The operatives of the Peppereell and Laconia mills here are working on two-thirds time in accordance with an agreement between the operatives and the management, reached last Friday. The order reducing wages has been rescinded.

INNOCENT OF WRONG

Rev. Mr. Fuller Resigns His Ministry in the Episcopal Church.

REFUSES TO ACCEPT THE SENTENCE

He Demands Immediate Deposition and Abandonment and Openly Renounces the Discipline of the Church—Cause of His Suspension.

Boston, May 19.—Rev. Samuel Richard Fuller, rector of St. Paul's church in Malden for several years, until suspended by the bishop of the diocese, refuses to accept the sentence imposed. In a letter to Bishop Lawrence he says: "I insist upon my good faith in every step taken by me, and upon my innocence towards the church or towards any individual. Therefore, I cannot submit to any condemnatory or disciplinary sentence whatsoever, without doing violence to my consciousness of integrity. Accordingly, I resign my ministry in the Protestant Episcopal church, and herewith, as in its canons provided, 'declare' to you 'in writing' my 'renunciation' of said ministry in said church and demand immediate deposition therefrom for the reason that I do hereby 'abandon and openly renounce the discipline' of said church." Rev. Mr. Fuller was charged with having violated the canons of the Episcopal church regarding marriage and was publicly suspended from the priesthood for two years by Bishop Lawrence. He was informed that if at the end of two years, he had returned to the performance of any ministerial duty without having proven his first wife guilty of adultery, he would return at his own peril. About fifty people, including a number of Presbyterians were present, and immediately after Bishop Lawrence had read his decision. Mr. Fuller read an elaborate protest. The committee who found Mr. Fuller guilty recommended his expulsion, but the bishop decided to deal with him as above. The specific charge was that of violating the law prohibiting the marriage of either party to a divorce while the other party is yet living, except in the case of the innocent party when the cause of divorce is adultery.

ALIEN CONTRACT LABOR.

An Important Question Answered by Justice Peckham.

Washington, May 19.—Justice Peckham has decided the following question certified to the supreme court of the United States from the sixth circuit court of appeals, in the case of the United States vs. Harry Laws: "Is a contract made with an alien in a foreign country (A. Seelinger at Dornmagen, Germany, July 23, 1890) to come to this country as a chemist on a sugar plantation in Louisiana (belonging to Harry Laws), in pursuance of which contract such alien does come to this country and is employed on a sugar plantation in Louisiana, his expenses being paid by the defendant, a contract to perform labor or services as prohibited in the alien contract labor laws?" The supreme court answered no.

Goes Back to Prison.

Philadelphia, May 19.—Dr. John H. Durland, who was convicted in the United States district court in this city of using the mails to defraud, and who was sentenced to ten months' imprisonment in the county jail, was yesterday afternoon returned to the prison to finish his sentence. After Durland had been incarcerated for about a month he was released on proceedings from the United States supreme court until that tribunal could pass upon the case. The decision was against him.

Washington, May 19.—Secretary Carlisle has sent to the senate a letter containing some observations on the Perkins bill to give the president power to meet discriminating duties against American commerce. "After careful consideration of this bill," says Mr. Carlisle, "I am impelled to the conclusion that it will be impracticable for this department to determine the excess of the direct or indirect bounty or premium on exports allowed by foreign countries."

HIS GREAT SACRIFICE

Weyler Pardons a Large Number of Political Prisoners.

HONORS BOY SOVEREIGN'S BIRTHDAY

Havana Cigarmakers To Celebrate the Order Stopping the Export of Tobacco. Result of Several Engagements as Given Out by the Government.

Havana, May 15.—Reports have been received from several districts of engagements between the troops and the insurgent bands. According to these the Spaniards have been uniformly victorious. This, of course, is news given out by the government. The total loss of the insurgents was twenty-three killed and one captured. The Spanish loss was two killed and three wounded. Among the latter are Col. Jul and another officer. The anniversary of the birth of King Alfonso, which actually occurred Sunday, and was celebrated yesterday. Captain-General Weyler liberated many political prisoners in honor of the occasion. It is stated that the cigar manufacturers and their employees will organize a procession to celebrate the action of Gen. Weyler stopping the export of tobacco. Gen. Vicuna has been attacked by yellow fever. His condition is serious. News has been received from the province of Santiago de Cuba to the effect that Col. Tejada has had a fierce engagement at Palmarito with the rebels commanded by Cebico. The insurgents occupied a strongly fortified position, but were dislodged by the troops, who numbered 1,500. When the troops were returning to Palmarito the rear guard were repeatedly attacked by the rebels. The troops lost four dead and two officers and twelve soldiers wounded. Unofficial advices show that Col. Tejada's report is incorrect, and that the rebels forced the troops to retreat. The government losses are said to be much heavier than stated in the official report.

SUNK IN COLLISION.

The Steamer D. H. Muller Goes Down in Baltimore Harbor with a Cargo.

Baltimore, May 19.—The Merchants & Miners' line steamship Decatur H. Muller was run down and sunk yesterday afternoon in the harbor, off the foot of East Falls avenue, by the steamship Bowden of the Buckman Fruit company. The Bowden was bound from Port Antonio, Jamaica, with a cargo of bananas and the Muller was in tow of a tug, shifting from her pier at the foot of East Falls avenue to Canton, to discharge about 500 tons of general merchandise, consisting largely of rosin, cotton, oil and lumber. She was not under steam at the time of the collision and was helpless, save for the tug. A hole four feet long by four feet wide was knocked in the Muller's side amidships and she sunk in about ten minutes. The stories of the officers of both steamers vary, and each claim the other was at fault.

COL. COCKERILL'S REMAINS.

They Leave New York This Afternoon for St. Louis for Final Interment.

New York, May 19.—The body of Col. John A. Cockerill found a temporary resting place at least last evening in the vault in Kensico cemetery, after his friends in many fraternal orders had given to it the last rites and after it had reposed for a while in the Calvary Baptist church, where the religious ceremony was held. The remains will start on a journey again this afternoon which will have for its terminal St. Louis, where the body, after traveling thousands of miles on land and sea, will at last be consigned to the earth.

BAPTIST ANNIVERSARY.

Many Strangers and Delegates in Attendance at the Asbury Park Meeting.

Asbury Park, N. J., May 19.—Asbury Park is crowded with visitors and delegates to the Baptist May anniversary, which commenced last night in the First Baptist church. The meeting last night was the nineteenth anniversary of the Woman's Baptist Home Mission society, the president of which is Mrs. J. D. Crouse. An address was made by Miss Mary G. Burdette, sister of the famous humorist. She reviewed the result of the society's labors in the various states, and stated that New Jersey showed a growing interest, New York was not up to expectations, but the society was not discouraged; Pennsylvania had cause for rejoicing, but the greatest advance, she said, was in Wisconsin. The society has eighty-two stations and 130 missionaries. In Colorado 30,000 persons had an opportunity to attend church, while in 200 places visited there were no houses for religious worship. Miss Burdette favored staidness, even if it did make the work more difficult. The Chinese made little progress. Miss A. H. Barber, the treasurer of the society, made the closing address. The programme for to-day includes a devotional service this morning, followed by a review of the society's work on the Long Island branch by Miss Nellie T. Lazell. At 11 o'clock the open parliament on the Model Missionary society will take place. In the afternoon addresses will be made by Mrs. H. H. Ames, Mrs. M. V. Littell, Miss Maria Jones and Miss Augusta Sells. The society will conclude its programme this evening.

IF MCKINLEY IS NOMINATED.

His Friends in New York State Intend to Run His Campaign Themselves.

Buffalo, May 19.—President George E. Matthews of the New York state McKinley league made a significant statement yesterday. It indicated a purpose on the part of the McKinley managers in the event of McKinley's nomination to take the campaign out of the hands of the republican state committee and put it in the hands of the special committee organized for the purpose. Mr. Platt's open hostility to McKinley is said to be the reason for this contemplated move. In the course of an interview Mr. Matthews was asked what action McKinley's managers in this state would take in the event of his nomination. He replied: "McKinley's friends in this state will do whatever they deem for his interest regardless of the wishes of the parties who have heretofore controlled New York state republican politics." "And that means a provisional state committee, probably?" "It means just what I said—whatever is deemed for his interest." "At present," Mr. Matthews added, "McKinley's friends are getting acquainted with each other. There are so many of them that it will take quiet a time. And the number of them grows with every day."

Watertown, N. Y., May 19.—Convict Boyle, who escaped from Auburn prison last week and again escaped at Syracuse after being recaptured, gave himself up to the chief of police last evening. The Auburn authorities have been notified.

CZAR'S CORONATION

Second Day of the Three Weeks' Celebration at Moscow.

VISITORS CONTINUE TO POUR IN

The Emperor and Empress Received Last Night with Great Popular Enthusiasm—Li Hung and Yamagata Viewing the Sights.

Moscow, May 19.—This is the second day of the three weeks' festivities attending the coronation of the czar of all the Russias, and every incoming train still adds to the great gathering of distinguished persons from all parts of the world already here. The chief event of the celebration so far was the arrival last evening of the czar and zarina and court from St. Petersburg. Long before the hour of their arrival, regiments of soldiers were massed about the Smolensky station. The governor general of Moscow met the imperial train at Kilm and accompanied it to the city. Only those who possessed tickets were admitted to the station. The platform was covered with red cloth and ornated with plants and flowers, large spreading palms forming an arch at the entrance to the royal apartments. On the platform could be seen the minister of war, a large number of generals and aides-de-camp, and numerous foreign princes and the Grand Duke Vladimir. The guard of honor at the station was composed of a detachment of cuirassiers, headed by the royal standard and the cuirassier band. Horse guards and dragoons were waiting outside the station to accompany the royal party to the Petrofsky palace.

Received with Great Enthusiasm.

At 5.30 o'clock the imperial train steamed slowly into the station. This special train which the czar had made for himself is fitted up with every luxury. The carriage, in which were the emperor and empress, stopped opposite the royal apartments. Their majesties walked down the platform, through the double line of princes and generals, but did not enter the royal apartments. Instead, the emperor and empress proceeded directly to the closed carriage awaiting them, which they entered with the governor general. The appearance of their majesties was the signal for prolonged hurrahs from the people gathered, led off by the long roar of the soldiery. The cuirassier band played the national anthem, and surrounded by the cuirassier guard, the carriage was driven off to the palace. Great enthusiasm was manifested during the whole of the short drive by the thickly massed people along the sides of the road. The palace was quickly reached and the emperor and empress alighted. The emperor looked well and the empress appeared to be in fine health. Her majesty was dressed in white and the emperor wore the colonel's uniform of the Probansky regiment.

Great Attention Shown the Visitors.

The officials are showing the greatest attention to their many distinguished guests, and to-day Li Hung Chang, the Chinese viceroy, is viewing the sights in company with a special escort. Count Yamagata, the Japanese field marshal, with his suite, is also sharing in the honors extended by the Russians. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught arrived here to-day. The duke will represent his mother, Queen Victoria, at the coronation ceremonies. The czar was 28 years old yesterday, and the anniversary of his birth was fittingly celebrated in all the cities of the empire. All the warships at Cronstadt, including the American and British, joined in firing salutes in honor of the occasion.

The Rise in the Price of Coal.

Philadelphia, May 19.—It is stated here on good authority that many of the coal companies that took orders at April prices and are now filling them will cancel all that are not filled by the end of the month. All dealers have been notified of this action and it has created a better demand for anthracite coal. After May 30 the new circular price is to prevail and there is talk of making a further advance of twenty-five cents a ton on July 1, to be followed by another on October 1.

Arrested as He Left State's Prison.

Anburr, N. Y., May 19.—Deputy sheriff J. K. Maitland of Cuyahoga county, O., arrested William H. Ellsworth of Bedford, a suburb of Cleveland, for forging a check for forty dollars in March, 1894, as he was discharged from state prison here last evening, after serving a sentence of two years for horse stealing, committed in Tompkins county, this state. Maitland and his prisoner left for the west to-day.

Separate Railroad Coach Law.

Washington, May 19.—The supreme court of the United States has decided in what is known as the "Jim Crow case" of Plessy vs. Ferguson, that the statute of the state of Louisiana requiring railroad companies to supply separate coaches for white and colored persons is constitutional, affirming the decision of the court below. Judge Harlan dissented.

AMANDA TODD.

BY MARY E. WICKINS.

Amanda Todd's orbit of existence is restricted, of a necessity, since she was born, brought up and will die in this village, but there is no doubt that it is eccentric. She moves apart on her own little course quite separate from the rest of us.

Had Amanda's lines of life been cast elsewhere, where circumstances had pushed her, instead of hemming her in, she might have become the feminine apostle of a new creed, have founded a sect or instituted a new system of female dress. As it is, she does not go to meeting, she never wears a bonnet and she keeps cats.

Amanda Todd is 60, and she never was married. Had she been, the close friction with another nature might have worn away some of the peculiarities of hers. She might have gone to meeting, she might have worn a bonnet, she might even have eschewed cats, but it is not probable. When peculiarities are in the grain of a person's nature, as they probably are in hers, such friction only brings them out more plainly, and it is the other person who suffers.

The village men are not, as a rule, very subtle, but they have seemed to feel this instinctively. Amanda was, they say, a very pretty girl in her youth, but no young man ever dared make love to her and marry her. She had always the reputation of being "an odd stick," even in the district school. She always kept by herself at recess, she never seemed to have anything in common with the other girls and she always went home alone from singing school. Probably never in her whole life has Amanda Todd known what it is to be protected by some devoted person of the other sex through the mighty perils of our village street.

There is a tradition in the village that once in her life, when she was about 25 years old, Amanda Todd had a beautiful bonnet and went to meeting.

Old Mrs. Nathan Morse vouches for the reliability of it, and, moreover, she hints at a reason. "When Mandy, she was 'bout 25 years old," she says, "George Henry French, he come to town, and taught the district school, and he see Mandy, an' told Almira Denton that he thought she was about the prettiest girl he ever laid eyes on, and Almira, she told Mandy. That was all there ever was to it, he never waited on her, never spoke to her, fur's I know, but right after that, Mandy, she had a bunnet, and she went reg'lar to meetin'." "Tore that her mother could scarcely get her to keep a thing on her head out of doors—allers carried her sunbunnet a-dancin' by the strings, wonder she wasn't sunstruck a million times—and as for goin' to meetin', her mother, she talked and talked, but it didn't do a mite of good. I s'pose her father kind of upheld her in it. He was most as odd as Mandy. He wouldn't go to meetin' unless he was driv, and he wa'n't a member. 'Nough sight ruther go out prowl'n' round in the woods like a wild animal, Sabbath days, than go to meetin'. Once he ketches a wildcat, an' tried to tame it, but he couldn't. It bit and chewed so he had to let it go. I guess Mandy gets her liking for cats from him fast enough. Well, Mandy, she had that handsome bunnet, and she went to meetin' reg'lar 'most a year, and she looked as pretty as a picture sittin' in the pew. The bunnet was trimmed with green gauze ribbon and had a wreath of fine pink flowers inside. Her mother was real tickled, thought Mandy had met with a change. But land, it didn't last no time. George Henry French, he quit town the next year and went to Somerset to teach, and pretty soon we heard he had married a girl over there. Then Mandy, she didn't come to meetin' any more. I dunno what she did with the bunnet—stamped on it, most likely, she always had considerable temper—anyway, I never see her wear it arterwards."

Thus old Mrs. Nathan Morse tells the story, and somehow to a reflective mind the picture of Amanda Todd in her youth decked in her pink-wreathed bonnet, selfishly but innocently attending in the sanctuary of divine love in order to lay hands on her own little share of earthly affection, is inseparable from her, as she goes now, old and bare-headed, defiantly past the meeting house, when the Sabbath bells are ringing.

However, if Amanda Todd had elected to go bareheaded through the village street from feminine vanity, rather than eccentricity, it would have been no wonder. Not a young girl in the village has such a head of hair as Amanda. It is of a beautiful chestnut color, and there is not a gray thread in it. It is full of wonderful natural ripples, too—not one of the village girls can equal them with her papers and crimping pins—and Amanda arranges it in two superb braids wound twice around her head. Seen from behind, Amanda's head is that of a young beauty; when it turns a little, and her harsh old profile becomes visible, there is a shock to the stranger.

Amanda's father had a great shock of chestnut hair, which was seldom cut, and she inherits this adornment from him. He lived to be an old man, but that ruddy crown of his never turned gray.

Amanda's mother died long ago; then her father. Ever since she has lived alone in her shingled cottage with her cats. There were not so many cats at first; they say she started with one fine tabby, who became the mother, grandmother and great-grandmother to armies of kittens.

Amanda must destroy some when she can find no homes for them, otherwise she herself would be driven afield, but still the impression is of a legion.

A cat is so covert, it slinks so secretly from one abiding place to another and seems to duplicate itself with its sudden appearances, that it may account in a measure for this impression. Still there are a great many. Nobody knows just the number—the estimate runs anywhere from 15 to 50. Counting, or trying to count, Amanda Todd's cats is a favorite amusement of the village children. "Here's another," they shout, when a pair of green eyes gleams at them from a post. But is it another, or only the same cat who has moved? Cats sit in Amanda's windows; they stare out wisely at the passers-by, from behind the panes, or they fold their paws on the ledge outside in the sunshine. Cats walk Amanda's ridgepole and her fence, they perch on her posts and fly to her cherry trees with bristling fur at the sight of a dog. Amanda has as deadly a hatred of dogs as have her cats. Everyone which comes within stone throw of her she sends off yelping, for she is a good shot. Kittens tumble about Amanda's yard and crawl out between her fence pickets under people's feet. Amanda will never give away a kitten except to a responsible person, and is as particular as if the kitten were a human orphan, and she the manager of an asylum.

She will never, for any consideration, bestow one of her kittens upon a family that keeps a dog, or where there are many small children. Once she made a condition that the dog should be killed, and she may be at times inwardly disposed to banish the children.

Amanda Todd is extremely persistent when she has selected a home which is perfectly satisfactory to her for a kitten. Once one was found tied into a little basket like a baby on the doorstep of a childless and humane couple who kept no dog, and there is a story that Deacon Nehemiah Stockwell found one in his overcoat pocket and never knew how it came there. It is probable that Amanda resorts to these extreme measures to save herself from either destroying her kittens or being driven out of house and home by them.

However, once, when the case was reversed, Amanda herself was found wanting. When she began to grow old, and the care of her pets told upon her, it occurred to her that she might adopt a little girl. Amanda has a comfortable little income, and would have been able to provide a good living for a child, as far as that goes.

But the managers of the institution to whom Amanda applied made inquiries, and the result did not satisfy them. Amanda stated frankly her reason for wishing to take the child, and her intentions with regard to her. She wished the little girl to tend her cats and assist her in caring for them. She was willing that she should attend school four hours per day, going after the cats had their breakfast, and returning an hour earlier to give them their supper. She was willing that she should go to meeting in the afternoon only, and she could have no other children come to visit her for fear they would maltreat the kittens. She furthermore announced her intention to make her will, giving to the girl, whom she should adopt, her entire property in trust for her cats, to include her own maintenance on condition that she devote her life to them as she had done.

The trustees declared that they could not conscientiously commit a child to her keeping for such purposes, and the poor little girl orphan, who had the chance of devoting her life to the care of pussy cats and kittens, to the exclusion of all childish followers, remained in her asylum.

So Amanda on this day lives alone, and manages as best she can. Nobody in the village can be induced to live with her; one forlorn old soul preferred the almshouse.

"I'd 'nough sight ruther go on the town than live with all them cats," she said.

It is rather unfortunate that Amanda's shingled cottage is next the meeting house, for that, somehow, seems to render her non-church-going more glaringly conspicuous, and then, too, there is a liability of indecorous proceedings on the part of the cats.

They evidently do not share their mistress' dislike of the sanctuary, and find its soft pew cushions very inviting. They watch their chances to slink in when the sexton opens the meeting house; he is an old man and dim-eyed, and they are often successful. It is wise for anybody before taking a seat in a pew to make sure that one of Amanda's cats has not forestalled him; and often a cat flees down one flight of the pulpit stairs as the minister ascends the other.

We all wonder what will become of Amanda's cats when she dies. There is a report that she has made her will and left her property in trust for the cats to somebody, but to whom? Nobody in this village is anxious for such a bequest, and whoever it may be will probably strive to repudiate it. Some day the cats will undoubtedly go by the board; young Henry Wilson, who has a gun, will shoot some, the rest will become aliens and wanderers, but we all hope Amanda Todd will never know it.

In the meantime she is undoubtedly carrying on among us an eccentric, but none the less genuine mission. A home missionary is Amanda Todd, and we should recognize her as such in spite of her non-church-going proclivities. Weak in faith though she may be, she is, perchance, as strong in love as the best of us. At least I do not doubt that her poor little four-footed dependents would so give evidence if they could speak.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Florida Indians.

"Our Indian," says Dr. Brecht, Indian commissioner in the state of Florida, "are not multiplying rapidly. This is due to physiological and social reasons. Still, there has been an increase. In 1850 there were but 112. Now there are something over 500. The chief social reason for their slow propagation is the custom of countenancing no marriages of persons who have a drop of the same blood in their veins. This is sometimes hard on the girls. One leader I know has two beautiful daughters, who cannot get married because the eligible young men are almost all akin to them."—Chicago Chronicle.

The Liberty Bicycle is a Good Wheel!

It is better than the best. It is a wheel that hasn't cost any of our numerous customers one cent for repairs either last season nor this.

It is a wheel that is always ready for the rider. What is more vexatious than to have to send your wheel to the factory to repair damage and wait a week or two just when you want to use it the most.

Ride a Liberty and we will guarantee not to keep you waiting over an hour at the most, in the event of damage, but send you on your way rejoicing with your wheel as good as new. This has been the experience of all Liberty riders, both last season and this.

These are facts worthy of consideration. It is a wheel which we sell on its merits, and under our own personal guarantee. We are practical mechanics, and what little repairs they need, we do ourselves.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore an important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

DOGS AND TRAMPS.

One of the Latter Shatters a Favorite Belief.

"Am I afraid of dogs?" repeated the tramp, as he leaped against the wall to rub his itching shoulder. "Well, that's a queer question to ask a fellow who's been on the tramp for 15 years! What's dogs got to do with it?"

"It is said that dogs have an instinctive aversion to tramps," replied the interviewer.

"Maybe they her, but the tramp hasn't worryin' about that as I know of. If dogs was all we had to look out fur we'd be a happy lot. Who's bin stuffin' you about dogs?"

"Weren't you ever bitten by a dog?"

"Of course, but that was when I was green at the biz. After the first six months no dog ever hankered arter my legs. When you read about a farmer's dog humpin' a tramp over the fence, don't you take no stock in it. It's all guf."

"Well, how do you protect yourself?"

"In the first place, dogs are afraid of tramps. Nine out of ten of 'em will growl a few times and then sneak away. They seem to jest figger that a tramp wouldn't be losin' around like he is if he wasn't loaded fur dogs. The books all tell ye to look a dog in the eye, but no tramp is fool 'nuff fur that. If ye do he'll figger that ye are defyin' him and bite ye fur sure. Jest look at his paws instead. That'll bother and annoy him and make him turn tail. If a dog rushes out on me of a sudden I stand still. When he sees I don't run he argues that I'm dangerous. I've had 50 farmers 'sic' a big dog on me, but I simply back slowly away and never get a bite. I've run onto dogs in yards, barns and sheds and skeert 'em half to death by making a 'buz-z-z-z-z' with my teeth shut."

"But you do find a dangerous dog once in awhile?" persisted the questioner.

"Oh, of course," replied the tramp, as he scratched his shoulder. "Yes, we find a dog now and then who lacks good sense and we her to help him out."

"How do you do it?"

"With a handful of dry sand or fine-cut tobacco. As he jumps we throw the stuff into his eyes, and if the owner of the dog hain't clus behind him a feller kin hev ten minutes of solid fun watchin' the circus. That dog may live fur ten years arter that date, but he'll never meddle with another tramp. Dogs—humph! Say, gimme a quarter and bring on yer bulldog and tell him to climb fur me!"—Detroit Free Press.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. ## A Convenient Yeast.

Take two cakes of good dry yeast and dissolve them in a teacup of tepid water. Scald three tablespoonfuls of flour, add one-half cup of sugar, two-thirds cup of salt. Boil 12 large potatoes in two quarts of water, adding enough to have that amount. When done mash them fine, and add to them two more quarts of warm water, the scalded flour, sugar and salt. When the mixture is barely warm add the dissolved yeast. Stand it in a warm place for 12 hours, then bottle. This should make a quantity sufficient to fill five quart fruit jars, and should be at once placed in a cool, dark place. To make your bread, take one jar of yeast in the morning, work it moderately stiff with some flour, and set to rise in a warm sheltered place. It will usually be ready to bake by noon, and will make three good loaves.—N. Y. Tribune.

N. Y. Supreme Court, County of Orange—Frank M. Stanton, plaintiff, vs. The Middletown Casino Theatre Company of Middletown, N. Y., and Horace W. Corey, defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made in the above entitled action on the 21st day of March, 1896, and duly entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Orange, on the 23rd day of March, 1896, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the Russell House, a hotel kept by E. ## THE MONTICELLO CHURCH TROUBLE.

Report of the Committee of Presbytery on the Differences Between the Pastor and Trustees of the Monticello Presbyterian Church.

The committee appointed by the Presbytery of Hudson to investigate, report upon and, if possible, harmonize the difficulties existing between the pastor and trustees of the Monticello Presbyterian Church, reported the following conclusions at a meeting of the church and congregation held in Monticello, yesterday:

I. They find the session and trustees both erred in making the original arrangement with the Rev. James A. McGowan in 1888 in that they did not follow the directions of the form of government with reference to such business:

1. In not calling a meeting of the church and congregation to ascertain their wishes with respect to securing the services of Rev. Mr. McGowan.

2. In assuming powers never delegated to them in making an agreement with him as to salary.

3. In deliberately avoiding the oversight and authority of Presbytery in their arrangements.

II. They find in their attempts to bring the arrangement with Mr. McGowan to a close the trustees have greatly exceeded their authority and clearly violated both ecclesiastical and civil law.

1. In their efforts to terminate the ministerial services of Mr. McGowan—the law for religious corporations enacted by the Legislature of 1895 expressly declaring that it "does not give to the trustees of an incorporated church any control over the calling, settlement, dismissal or removal of its minister or fixing his salary."

2. In failing to open the church edifice for the regular services of public worship during all the Sundays of April, for one of which a communion service had been appointed.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church has decided that the session has the right to direct and control the church building for all religious services. The Supreme Court of the U. S. in 1872 reports a decision to the same effect and the law of 1895 of the State of New York distinctly says that it does not give the trustees of a church "any power to fix or change the time, nature or order of the public or social worship of the church except when they are also the spiritual officers of the church."

III. They decreed that a meeting of the church and congregation be held on Monday, May 13, at 2 p. m., to determine the future relations of Mr. McGowan to the church and also to decide what compensation should be given him for his services from Jan. 1, '96, to the present time, and that Rev. Pros. B. Nichols preside at that meeting.

IV. In the course of this investigation they have found nothing to reflect unfavorably upon the Christian character or conduct of Mr. McGowan. That his preaching and pastoral services have been generally satisfactory, and through these perplexing experiences he has conducted himself with a commendable Christian spirit.

At a congregational meeting of the Presbyterian Church in Monticello, yesterday, the request of Rev. James A. McGowan that his relations with the church be dissolved was granted. The question of salary from January 1st was left to the generosity of the trustees.

Forest of Dean Mines Closed.

A dispatch from Highland Falls says that the Forest of Dean mines, owned and operated by the Poughkeepsie Iron Ore Company, have closed permanently, and the donkey pumps and other machinery are being removed. These mines have been worked night and day continuously for many years, and their closing has thrown out of employment many teamsters and miners, who had settled in that vicinity. The cause is the exhaustion of the company's territory and its inability to secure a lease on contiguous ground, although a good price was offered.

The Erie's Dollar Excursion.

Mr. Ogden is well known and should secure his share of public patronage.

BURIED IN A TREE.

A Curious Mausoleum Recently Discovered in Saxo-Altenburg.

One of the most curious mausoleums in the world was discovered recently in an orchard at the village of Noehdenitz, in Saxo-Altenburg. A gigantic oak tree, which a storm had robbed of its crown, was up for public auction. Among the bidders happened to be Baron von Thummel, scion of a family of ancient lineage that has given the world of literature one charming poet and the fatherland many distinguished statesmen. The baron, who lives on a neighboring estate, had ridden to the auction place quite accidentally. Finally the tree was knocked down to him for 200 marks. Upon his arrival at the castle he told an old servant of his purchase, describing the tree and its situation. The old servant said he remembered attending the funeral of a Baron Thummel 70 or 80 years ago, and that the body had been buried in a thousand-year-old oak, belonging to the personage. Investigation clearly proved that the orchard had once been the property of the village church, and that at one side of the old oak was an iron shutter, rusty and time-worn, that the people of the town had always supposed to have been placed there by some joker or mischievous boys. The iron shutter proved to be the gate to the mausoleum of Baron Thummel. When the shutter was opened, the body of the Baron Thummel, who died in 1824, and wished to be buried "in the thousand-year-old tree he loved so well," in the hollow of the tree Baron Thummel caused to be built a sepulchre of solid masonry, large enough to accommodate his coffin. The coffin was placed there, as the church records show, on March 3, 1824, and the opening was closed by an iron grate. In the course of time a wall of wood grew over the opening, which had been enlarged to admit the coffin and the workmen, and for many years it has been completely shut, thus removing the last vestige of the odd use to which the old tree had been put. The tree has still some life in it, and its rich verdure is only now turning a violet tint. The coffin in which Baron Thummel reposes has on one side grown to the tree, the dead and the live wood joining together in eternal embrace.—Public Opinion.

Where We Differ from England.

"Any man of unobtrusive turn who visits England can't help but notice the different ways they have from the people of this country in the construction of houses, bridges, vehicles, and implements of every kind," said Dr. C. L. Phelps, of Boston. "The Englishmen go in for durability beyond everything else. I went into a concern that makes agricultural machinery after the pattern of a well-known house in the United States. I couldn't help but contrast the British and American makes, and saw in them the characteristics of the two nations. An English harvester was big and heavy and clumsy. I told the owner that we wouldn't have such for it would kill our horses to draw it. He smiled and said, with proud emphasis: 'that it will last 25 years.'"

"Right here is where we are smart, or than our cousins across the sea. A Yankee farmer doesn't want a machine that will wear a quarter of a century, for he knows that in two or three years a greatly improved one will be on the market, and his implement will be obsolete. The English seem to take no account of this, and whatever they build is for a generation. In this way they have been distanced in many lines of manufacturing by their American competitors, but that doesn't affect their system in the least, and they will keep on improving theirs the superior policy."—Washington Star.

The Vastness of the Ocean.

The surface of the sea is estimated at 139,000,000 square miles; taking the whole surface of the globe at 197,000,000, and its greatest depth supposed to be equal to that of the highest mountain, or four miles. The Pacific ocean covers 75,500,000 square miles, the Atlantic, 25,000,000, the Mediterranean 1,000,000.—Detroit Free Press.

PROF. THOMSON'S IDEA.

He Proposes a Standard Tube for Producing Roentgen Rays.

Prof. Elihu Thomson writes in the Electrical Review: "The observations which have up to this time been made as to the source of Roentgen rays point to the fact that the cathode rays must strike some surface, which then becomes the Roentgen ray source. My own observations make me think that if the bombarded surface is of such a dense metal as platinum—which does not fluoresce—the rays will be more energetic. Bearing in mind the observations and the fact that it is desirable to possess Crookes tubes which are of standard make and adapted for use with high-frequency apparatus, Ruhmkorff coils with oscillatory or unidirectional discharge, or with Wimshurst or Holtz machines, I have proposed as a standard tube one which is represented in the accompanying illustration. The structure consists of a bulb, at opposite sides of which are mounted concave aluminum disks supported on wires sealed through the glass. The foot of these concave electrodes coincide, nearly, at the center of the bulb, at which point is located a V-shaped sheet of platinum, iron, a small piece of iridium, or other piece of metal. This could be supported in any way desired, but it may be suggested, as a convenience, that it be mounted on a third or middle terminal, so that it can be made an anode. In using this tube with high-frequency currents the two cup-shaped terminals are attached to the source of electric currents, which alternately become cathode during the discharges and cause the Roentgen rays to be emitted from the apex of the platinum sheet, or from the surface of the piece of metal placed at the common focus. With oscillatory currents from a Ruhmkorff coil the same connections may be used and even when the discharges are unidirectional the connection of either cup-shaped terminal as a cathode makes the tube effective, but in this case the middle terminal may be made the anode and the other or cup-shaped terminal a double cathode, and thus give the greatest amount of cathode surface with but a short distance to be traversed by the discharges, while the sharpness of the focus and, consequently, the definition obtainable with the Roentgen rays, remain unimpaired. If the vacuum in such a tube is too low, it is also possible to raise it quickly by constituting the middle terminal a cathode for a time, in which case metal would be carried therefrom and deposited on the side of the bulb and quickly absorb the residual gas. If during the working of the tube the vacuum becomes too high, it can sometimes be reduced by simply heating the tube to a high temperature.

ROME'S NEW MONUMENT.

Crypt in St. Lawrence Basilica Where Pope Pius IX. Remains Rest.

Pope Pius IX. was that he should be buried in the rear of the crypt in the basilica of St. Lawrence, Rome.

This crypt is a dark, subterranean room where pilgrims come to pray at the tombs of Lawrence, Stephen and Justinian. The stone on which Lawrence's body was placed after it was burned is there also.

The pontiff's desire has been fulfilled. There is no statue on his grave. There is an inscription only: "Ossa et cineres Pii." But the admirers of the pope have called the world's attention to their fidelity in obedience to his wishes as follows:

"We have respected his will; a simple marble slab marks the place where rest his venerated ashes. But if we do not touch the tomb, it may be permitted to us to ornament, to decorate, to enrich its frame."

Money came in plenty from everywhere, and Rome now has one more great monument. The crypt of St. Lawrence, become a shrine for the tomb of Pius IX., surrounded by a semicircle of iron faintly worked, is covered with a splendid mosaic of Venetian style that art lovers admire.

AN OBSTINATE TOWERMAN.

Field Several Electric Cars at the North Street Crossing—Mittok Park Police—man Ballantine for a "West Point Dude."

The Traction Company was subjected to considerable unnecessary annoyance and delay at the North street crossing of the Erie, last evening, owing to the obstinacy of the man in the Erie tower, who manipulates the gates and derailing switches.

A car going north passed the derailer on the south side of the track, and in accordance with orders came to a full stop at the tracks to allow the conductor to run ahead to see that all was clear. Just as it stopped a lady attempted to board the car and took considerable time about it. It is against orders to stop for passengers between the derailing switches, but if the motorman had started the car the lady might have been injured.

That the car had stopped and a passenger had boarded it between the derailers so incensed the towerman that he threw the north derailer, thereby holding the car between the tracks and the north switch in front of the Bell House. No argument could convince him that he was in the wrong and he held the car there until two others came and a general backing up was necessary to straighten matters out.

Park policeman Ballantine fired in his gray uniform, happened to be on one of the cars and he took part in the discussion. The towerman, however, did not recognize him and desired to know what business a "stunt" man in the muck, and informed him that he "didn't take no orders from a West Point dude."

THE NORWICH BAPTIST CHURCH ROW

Pastor Cass's Resignation Accepted—Indications That the End Is Not Yet.

The resignation of Rev. T. G. Cass, pastor of the Norwich Baptist Church, was accepted Sunday, and at the same meeting a resolution was adopted calling on the trustees of the church to resign. The Sun says that Mr. Cass plainly intimated his intention to secure, if possible, a re-engagement as pastor by the vote of the church and society, and it does not hesitate to charge that this is in violation of the letter and spirit of the agreement entered into last November, when the troubles in the church were harmonized and he agreed to resign his pastorate on May 1st.

As a result of the feud in the church it has been going to the bad financially. The trustees figuring that since Dec. 1st the receipts have been $720 less than expenses.

JUMPED FOR THEIR LIVES.

Three Persons Barely Escape from a Burning House in Port Jervis.

A lamp left burning in the kitchen of Mrs. Martin K. Stearn's boarding house in Port Jervis exploded Sunday morning at an early hour, and set fire to the building. Mrs. Stearn and three boarders were sleeping so soundly that they would have perished in the flames had not a neighbor, who was awakened by the smoke, broken in the door and aroused the inmates.

As it was Mrs. Stearn and two of the boarders had to jump from the second story to save their lives.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:

BARNUM'S CIRCUS.

The Large Main Tent Will Seat Twelve Thousand Persons.

Barnum & Bailey advertising car No. 4 was in Middletown, yesterday, replenishing the billing and doing a lot of additional advertising. May 28 will be a great day for Middle town. The railroads have all made very low rates and immense crowds are expected from the surrounding towns. The great capacity of the Barnum & Bailey tents this year is capable of taking care of all who come. The seating capacity without crowding is over twelve thousand people, it being the biggest stretch of canvas ever seen in this or any other country.

Many new features and attractions have been introduced by Barnum & Bailey this season. Altogether there are more than 100 separate and distinct acts. Fifty trained horses perform in one ring at one time; twenty-four elephants execute marvelous tricks in three rings at one time, and troupes of specialists occupy three stages with concurrent acts. A lady is hurled from a crossbow 80 feet into the air; the new woman on horseback in billow-eated skirts, the ethnic entertainment of illustrated India, the lady clown and ringmasters, are all new features. The wonderful gorilla, Johanna, is a whole show, and is undoubtedly the greatest living attraction ever presented before the American public. There are three circus companies, in three rings, three stages, and a ring track. Then there are the two menageries, in one of which is located a veritable Midway, lined with the huts, weapons, canoes, implements, tools, and other material belonging to the strange people who perform in Oriental India.

Twelve champion male and female bareback riders are seen in the rings, with any number of acrobats and specialists, and altogether it is the finest and grandest show ever organized. A new street parade has also been arranged for this season, containing representations of all crowded heads of the world, with the music and military uniforms of all nations, a horseless carriage and many other features.

SOUTH CENTREVILLE.

Several Methodist Church Announcements.

Correspondence ARGO and MERCURY.

—We Methodists are out for a busy and prosperous year. On Tuesday evening, May 19, we are to hold a public meeting in our church for the election of two trustees. On Thursday evening, May 21st, we will give our first strawberry and cream sociable of the season on our church lawn. If the weather is too cool for the lawn, a warmer place close at hand will be provided. And in case it is a stormy evening the sociable will be given the next fair evening. The proceeds will be applied on the pastor's support. All are cordially invited to a grand success. This is the year for us to have new sheds, needed inside church ornamentation, and a first-class bell in our belfry.

When Nature

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is the Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company.

Burdock Blood Bitters is nature's true remedy for constipation and kindred ills. It acts directly on the bowels, the liver, the skin, and while cleansing the blood imparts strength to the digestive organs.

Cyclometer FREE.

It is 1,000 mile repeating. Every Bicycle Rider should have it.

Where Do You Buy Your Groceries?

Are you entirely satisfied or are you thinking of making a change?

If the latter we so left your trade. Our business has more than doubled within the last six months, pretty good evidence that our goods and prices are a cent's better.

Still we are not satisfied, and, if by handling the best of goods, coupled with close prices and strenuous efforts of self and clerk to please our customers, we can double present business, we propose to do it.
